In response to the current opioid crisis, we seek a comprehensive multi-sector response with approaches that include prevention education, treatment, recovery, and enforcement strategies. We seek to ensure that individuals and families impacted by the disease of addiction, have a full complete access to prevention, treatment and recovery services on par with coverage equal to that of other diseases, thus removing the stigma surrounding the disease of addiction.

Opioid Educational Training:

Recommendations:

We encourage you to ask your medical or dental provider the following questions if a narcotic pain medication is discussed:

- Are there risks associated with taking narcotic pain medications?
- How long can I safely take this narcotic pain medication?
- How would I know if I have become addicted to a narcotic pain medication?
- Are there other options or safer alternative therapies to better respond to pain?

Opioid Overdose Training:

Using Narcan to reverse an overdose

Request a Narcan training at the following provider:

STOPP—Southern Tier Overdose Prevention Program

The Southern Tier Overdose Prevention Program is a community-based drug overdose education and Narcan distribution program supported by the NYS Department of Health and amfAR. Southern Tier Health Care System created STOPP to provide training in the use of Narcan and free Narcan kits. STOPP is designed to stop an opioid overdose and save lives.
